Opposition Discusses New Regime

Violent Weekend Frightens People Off the Streets

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A member of the opposition group disclosed today that Lebanese opposition leaders are discussing formation of a rebel government as a rival to the regime of President Camille Chamoun. The informant told reporters no decision had been reached.

A series of explosions amid sporadic shooting shook Beirut today as Lebanon's capital closed tighter than at any time since the general strike began 37 days ago. No pitched battles were reported.

After a violent weekend, the population is intimidated, and scattered disturbances frightened most people off the streets.

Shops closed in districts normally quiet. Offices which had maintained business as usual were closing and sending their employees home. In some districts no sign of life was visible. Even private residences were tightly shuttered.

During the morning a bomb exploded near the American University. Another went off near the Finance Ministry. A outbreak of shooting was reported from the Moslem quarter where followers of rebel leader Saeb Salam hold the area.

An atmosphere of tension hung as though the population expected a major new outbreak. In everyone's minds was the possibility of religious civil war in a nation half Moslem and half Christian.

This was the Lebanese atmosphere as the country awaited U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld, due here Wednesday. A U.N. spokesman said Hammarskjöld will attend the first meeting of the U.N. watchdog commission set up by the Security Council to bar the flow of arms across Lebanon's borders.

Five Injured, One Seriously, In Car Wreck

Warrensburg Family's Car Skids During Downpour

One person was seriously injured and four others received minor injuries in a one-car accident on State Highway 52 about a half mile west of the Junction of State Highway 127, shortly after 1:30 a.m. Sunday. The driver of the automobile, Freddie Joe Mistle, 25, of Warrensburg, escaped injury.

Miss Arnetta Ward, 20, of Warrensburg, is in serious condition from a back and neck injury and possible internal injuries. She also suffered a cut over the right eye. She will be transferred to the Medical Center in Warrensburg possibly Tuesday.

Mrs. Joyce Mistle, 24, wife of the driver, suffered shock, abrasion of the left shoulder, sprained back and minor sprain of the neck.

Miss Ella Mae Skaggs, 37, also of Warrensburg, received a cut of the right wrist and possible sprain, bruises on the right knee.

Charles W. Stewart, 29, of Warrensburg, suffered a severe cut of the right ear, abrasions of the right cheek.

James M. Parker, 27, of 4146 Indiana, Kansas City, received bruises about his head.

According to Mistle, he was driving his 1951 Cadillac sedan west on 52 Highway and during a downpour of rain Mistle told Trooper Richard Joes of the State Highway Patrol, "the car started skidding, the back end swerved to one side and when I thought I had it straightened out it skidded in the opposite direction and left the highway on the left side."

The car traveled down the left shoulder along a shallow ditch for about 154 feet, nosed into the embankment and flipped over on its top.

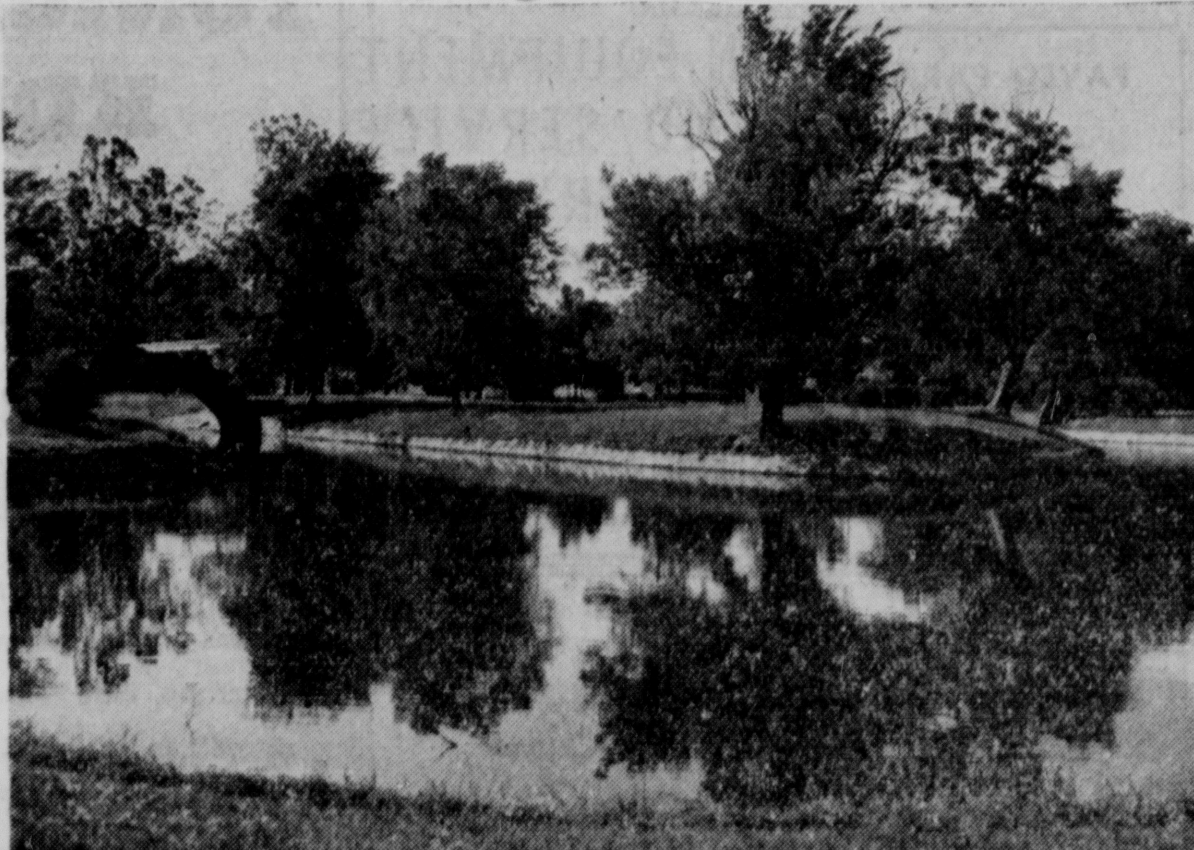

Miss Ward and Stewart were both thrown out of the car on to the highway, the other four were rolled around on the inside of the car. Mistle kicked out one glass to get out of the car. The car was extensively damaged and was towed to the Chevrolet garage in Windsor.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Crabtree of Windsor, who was passing the scene a few seconds after it happened, stopped when Miss Ward started to wave them down as they stood on the pavement. They took all off the party to the Windsor Hospital.

Dr. Claude M. Thurber administered emergency treatment to the injured and had the three women admitted for further observation.

The sale will begin at 10 a.m. Tuesday, under sales manager Justin Doak of the Missouri Department of Agriculture, Jefferson City.

De Gaulle To Talk To Macmillan

Is His First Meeting With West Leader; To See Dulles Later

PARIS (AP) — Premier de Gaulle will confer with British Prime Minister Macmillan before the end of this month.

Official sources said no precise date has yet been set for the meeting, but June 27 is mentioned frequently.

It will be De Gaulle's first meeting with a top leader of The Western Alliance since taking office. It will precede by about a week his scheduled talks with U. S. Secretary of State Dulles July 5.

Although the general has pledged his allegiance to the Western Alliance, it is understood he foresees a more independent role for France within it.

De Gaulle returned today from a country weekend to find his desk piled high with North African problems.

De Gaulle's designated representative in North Africa, Gen. Raoul Salan, officially took over the resident minister's office in the Algiers government headquarters building today. But informed sources said De Gaulle was planning a second trip to Algeria within the next month to tighten his authority there.

The Premier designated Salan civil and military governor during his trip two weeks ago. De Gaulle's presence in Algeria put the lid on the army and right-wingers who staged the May 13 revolt against the Paris regime but the Premier's authority over the dissidents is still questionable.

Algeria's two neighbors, Morocco and Tunisia, were also posing problems for the 67-year-old premier.

President Habib Bourguiba met in Tunis with Moroccan foreign Minister Ahmed Balfrej. Officially they met to sign a friendship treaty. But the political leader of the Algerian nationalist rebels, Ferhat Abbas, also headed for Tunis, to be available to discuss the nationalist war against the French in Algeria.

In Morocco, the French were negotiating the withdrawal of some of their soldiers — which Tunisia also wants.

The war in Algeria continued with no sign of a letup.

Wabash Tributary Overflows; Terre Haute Is Inundated

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Floodwaters of a Wabash River tributary picked up speed today, after overwhelming an earthen levee protecting the city of West Terre Haute, and spread out to inundate 30 per cent of the community.

The 4,000 residents of this western Indiana town near the Illinois border had been alerted Sunday night to the danger from swollen Sugar Creek. Civil Defense officials reported no casualties among the 1,000 persons forced from their homes.

An Indiana National Guard truck, a jeep and a pickup truck were swept away when the river poured over the levee at 2:30 a.m. about a mile upstream from where the creek empties into the Wabash.

Six men working on the levee were rescued.

The water flowed across U.S. 40 five blocks west of the Wabash and closed the heavily traveled highway.

COULD HAVE CAUSED A TRAGEDY—The windshield of the Volkswagen, driven by Edwin H. Hardey Jr., 24, Smithton, which was hit by a full beer can as he was driving south on U.S. Highway 65 near Windsor Junction Sunday. The same can was placed back in the hole to indicate the size of the hole and how it went crashing through to strike Hardey, who had with him, Mrs. Hardey and their three small children. Hardey received cuts on the face from flying glass and bruised right chest where the can struck him. (Staff Photo)

Thrown By An Unknown Person

Five Lives Endangered as Can Of Beer Smashes Windshield

The lives of a family of five were endangered about 12:30 p.m. Sunday afternoon when a vicious person threw a can of beer at their car and crashed through the windshield of the Volkswagen they were riding in on U.S. Highway 65 two and a half miles north of the Windsor Junction. The driver, Edwin H. Hardey, Jr., of Smithton, suffered minor injuries.

Hardey was struck in the right chest by the can of beer, and particles from the shattered glass struck his face causing numerous small cuts. He was treated at the Bothwell Hospital by Dr. T. J. Hopkins.

Mrs. Hardey and their three small children, Brenda Jean, five, Ruby Louise, two, and Betty Kay, two months old, were not hurt.

The Hardeys were driving south enroute to Lakeview Heights, where Mr. Hardey was to check several television aerials which had been damaged in a windstorm the past few days. As they passed a Chevrolet automobile, they noticed the passenger in the front seat on the right side holding a can out the window.

Just as they approached from the opposite direction the man threw the can over the windshield and it struck the windshield in front of Hardey, shattering the glass and plunging a hole, the size of the beer can, through the windshield.

Hardey was able to keep control of his car and pull to the shoulder and stopped. A passing motorist stopped and picked the family up and rushed them to the Bothwell Hospital.

The car was known to have three men in it. It was described as a 1955 Chevrolet painted with a white top and red body.

Trooper Robert Stockdell conducted an investigation. A request has been made that if any motorist who might have been behind the car or saw the accident to contact the Trooper and give him any additional information which might lead to the location of the parties in the car and the person who threw the can.

Trooper Stockdell met Hardey at the hospital and after he was treated took him back to his vehicle. He then returned and picked up his family at the hospital and returned to Smithton.

The Volkswagen is an enclosed truck and belonging to the Smith and Hume Television Co. in Smithton.

Textile Firm Under Fire During Visits

Case Dropped With Promise to Stop Mislabeling Cloth

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators produced evidence today that industrialist Bernard Goldfine had paid bills for Sherman Adams at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York at about the time a government agency was closing out a case against Goldfine.

Adams is President Eisenhower's No. 1 aide. The Waldorf bills for Adams and Mrs. Adams came to $267.05. They were run up at the plush New York hotel in January and February, 1954.

In the same period, Investigator Francis X. McLaughlin told a House subcommittee, the Federal Trade Commission was settling a complaint against Goldfine's Northfield Mills.

A Goldfine textile company promised that it would halt alleged mislabeling of certain cloth and the matter was closed on that basis.

The law provides various alternative actions in cases of charges of mislabeling. One is an agreement not to do it again. In cases of violations considered willful, the Federal Trade Commission can prosecute criminally in the courts and, if there is a conviction, the penalties can run up to $5,000 fine and a year's imprisonment.

Later Goldfine and some of his mills were involved in other charges of alleged mislabeling. This resulted in a cease and desist order, to which Goldfine and the companies consented though admitting no wrong doing. There was no criminal prosecution.

While the house subcommittee headed by Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark) received today's testimony, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told a news conference he had no information that Goldfine had ever offered President Eisenhower a suit of clothes.

The question came up when reporter Sarah McLendon said her newspaper has information that Goldfine likes to make gifts of clothes to his friends.

Whiteman Pays Some Personnel in $2 Bills

Whiteman Air Force Base paid its lower grade airmen and some non-commissioned officers Monday with $2 bills "to give the merchants an indication of the tremendous amount of money being spent in the surrounding towns by Whiteman personnel."

The total amount of money paid this time in $2 bills was not disclosed, but it was said to be only about one-sixth of the approximate one million dollars funneled into and through WAFB by the government each month.

Officers and civilians are paid by check directed to banks designated by themselves, individually, as are many of the non-commissioned officers.

Lower four-grade airmen are normally paid out their squadrons by check. Paydays are held twice monthly.

Unhurt Man Gets a Ride In Ambulance

"Say boy, lay down," the ambulance driver told his patient as they sped toward Sedalia to the Bothwell Hospital about 2:30 p.m. Sunday. "Say fellow, I am 49, and I ain't no boy," came the reply from Chandler H. Purnell, Route 4, Sedalia, who was the patient and started sitting up on the ambulance cot, who, unbeknown to the ambulance driver, wasn't injured.

It was a series of events which led up to Purnell's fast ride to the hospital.

Purnell told Trooper Richard Joos of the State Highway Patrol the following story: "We went to the Zero Market — me and my wife — to get groceries early in the morning. We were there a few minutes after they opened up, got our groceries and were headed back home. There was a car parked along side the road, and I pulled over and hit a hidden culvert blowing out both tires on the right side. The car went off in the ditch and I was lucky to keep it straight."

"A passing fellow in a car took my wife and groceries on home, and a few minutes later another car came along and picked me up and drove to town. I went to my boss' house and told him of the accident. While I was in town I had a couple of drinks, and they were legal, too."

"The boss took me back to the car and told me he would send out a wrecker to fix the tires so I could go on home. I waited and got tired so got on the trunk of the car and laid down and went to sleep," Purnell said. Continuing, he said, "the next thing I know, I'm wakes up in that ambulance and I see aint hurt."

The ambulance took him to the hospital where Dr. A. R. Maddox talked to Purnell and released him to go on home.

The Hamlin Service Station wrecker was sent to the scene.

Chief of Police Ralph Hamlin was at the Police station when a call was received there of a wreck on the Cedar Creek Road a short distance from the DeJarnette farm. When he arrived he found Purnell asleep on the car and tried to awaken him and asked if he was hurt. Purnell remarked his back hurt and went back to sleep. Those around the scene were sure he was in a serious condition and helped to get him on the ambulance cot, in the ambulance and sent him on his way.

"Man ain't this something," Purnell told a newspaper reporter, as he was being driven back to the scene.

They met Trooper Joos who had Purnell's wife with him and was headed to the hospital. Purnell joined his wife and Trooper Joos looked them on back to their home, everybody laughing at the incident.

When Imitation Is An Honor

We like to think that human beings have all the best traits, and we figure we're paying animals quite a compliment when we compare them to us.

Now and then, however, this cocky approach is subjected to more than a little strain. Thus it was with the Italian dog, Fido, who now lies buried in honor beneath the town cemetery gates in Borgo, Italy. Fido is short for Fidato, which means faithful and loyal.

Fido's master died in an Allied air raid 13½ years ago. The white and brown mongrel had been accustomed to meeting him at the bus every day. He never stopped coming to the bus in all those years. When he toppled over dead, he was on his way for his usual daily appointment with hope.

The people of Borgo and nearby Luco already had put up a marble monument to him, and given him a gold medal.

But this plodding, faithful hound deserves bigger honor. He deserves the honor of imitation by the humans on this earth who imagine they know all there is to know about the meaning of loyalty.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Assistant President Adams May Retire

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The betting odds in Washington are that Sherman Adams, for five years guardian of the presidential gate, correlator of White House decisions, the man who requires cabinet members to check with him as to what they have discussed with the President, will have to retire as "Assistant President."

The secret evidence piled up in the House Legislative Oversight Committee is too embarrassing.

It includes the fact that Bernard Goldfine paid other hotel bills for Sherman Adams. The $2,000 tab he picked up at the Sheraton-Plaza in Boston was just one case. There is also the case of a $1,300 hotel bill paid for the assistant president at Plymouth, Mass.

Then there is the case of Adams' clothes. Committee probes have checked with the tailor who fits both Goldfine, the millionaire textile manufacturer, and Adams, the immaculate presidential assistant. It develops that Goldfine paid for most of Adams' clothes.

He even presented Adams with a vicuna coat. This has caused Democrats to see shades of the Truman mink coat era. They remember the "cloth Republican coat" speech of Vice-President Nixon when he was defending his $18,000 personal expense fund and threw mink coats at the Democrats. They remember Ike's "clean as a hound's tooth" speech. And they remember the sanctimonious criticism of the Democrats by Adams himself.

When Sam Faber of the Faber tailoring firm in Boston was asked by this column how much money Goldfine had paid for Adams' clothes, he replied: "It's a very delicate matter. I can't discuss it."

Mrs. Adams' Clothes

There is also evidence that Goldfine paid for some of Mrs. Sherman Adams' clothing at Jordan-Marsh, Boston's most exclusive store. On some occasions Goldfine and Sherman Adams came along on these shopping trips.

There is also evidence that Adams intervened at the Federal Trade Commission where Goldfine faced a criminal case. It was dropped. The National Association of Wool Manufacturers also has informed its members that Adams got in touch with the Tariff Commission with a view to getting more tariff protection against foreign imports. Members of the association say that it was the same Berny Goldfine, one of the biggest woolen manufacturers in New England, who got Adams to intervene.

This, of course, was in direct contradiction to the President's strong policy of low-tariff reciprocal trade, which Democrats renewed for another five years last week.

All this follows so much Republican castigation of Democrats that it's believed Eisenhower cannot let Adams remain. It was in Des Moines, Sept. 19, 1952, that the presidential candidate promised: "When it comes to casting out the crooks and their cronies, I can promise you that we won't wait for congressional prodding and investigation. The prodding, this time, will start from the top."

Two White House Aides

Significantly, Adams' close relationship with Berny Goldfine broke just before Matt Connelly, who occupied the same White House position in the Truman administration, will go to jail for accepting one overcoat and two suits of clothes from Irvin Sachs, operator of Shu-Styles in St. Louis. A criminal tax case against Sachs was also involved. Connelly's crime was to phone Lamar Caudle at the Justice Department.

Caudle sent Sachs before U.S. District Judge Roy Harder, who fined him but, because he was an epileptic, did not sentence him to jail. For this Caudle and Connelly were prosecuted with dogged relentlessness by the Eisenhower administration and finally convicted of "depriving the United States of their best services." The Justice Department did not charge that they received monetary reward.

In the Goldfine case, he too faced a criminal charge—before the Federal Trade Commission. Adams, like Connelly, put in some phone calls in his behalf. The case against him was dropped. The case against Connelly's friend, Sachs, was not dropped. He pled guilty in federal court and was fined. Connelly got two suits of clothes and a topcoat from Sachs. Adams got $2,000 in free hotels in Boston plus $1,300 in free hotels in Plymouth, plus a vicuna coat, plus various other clothes from Goldfine. Connelly and Caudle go to jail one week hence, June 22, which is Caudle's birthday.

Adams Go-Round

The alibi put forward by Roger Robb, counsel for Goldfine (actually Adams' counsel) is that the two are friends of many years standing. Significantly, this is the same alibi made by the latest administration conflict-of-interest case, ex-FCC Commissioner Richard Mack, also defended by Robb. Because Mack was an old friend of Thurman Whiteside, the Miami attorney, he felt it was all right to borrow money from him. . . . Mack got fired from the FCC. It is illegal for a government official to take money from a party who has a case before him, and Mack has been summoned before a grand jury. This writer has predicted he will not be indicted. Neither will Sherman Adams. They didn't work for Harry Truman. Not many Washington tears are being shed for the predicament of Sherman Adams, even in Republican circles. He's been too sapientious. The two New Hampshire senators, Bridges and Cotton, have never liked him, though both have received favors from Goldfine. According to one New Hampshire, "Bridges views Adams' predicament like that of your mother-in-law going over a cliff in your new Cadillac." . . . Members of the Harris committee had mixed feelings about the Adams-Goldfine probe. Berny Schwartz, the counsel who was fired for suggesting earlier that Adams, Mack, et al were involved in possible conflicts of interest, had wanted to send probes to Boston a long time ago, but was stopped. When Congressman John Bell Williams of Mississippi finally took a subcommittee to Boston last week, The Herald-Traveler published a charge that he was guilty of "Bilboism." This made Williams see red. It will now be difficult to stop him.

Texas Musical Hero

Texas spawns no small heroes and Van Cliburn, 23-year-old Texan who won a prize in Moscow for his dazzling piano playing, is measuring up to the expected size.

He's only been home from his prize-winning tour a short time, but already he's had a successful concert appearance in New York, a ticker tape reception up Broadway, and other notable public appearances.

The critics took one good listen and decided the Russians were right about him. Virtually unknown a little while ago, he's launched on what may be a fine career in music.

Not only Texas but all America is proud of this tall sliver of a lad. He carries his triumph modestly, for he knows one prize is not a lifetime and a few concerts are not a career.

But if the young man's head is normal size, that only seems to put in sharper relief the outside talent which should enrich the musical world.

Guest Editorial

COLUMBIA MISSOURIAN: Work! Work! Work! We Americans have a tendency to glorify words beyond all reason. Or, in the opposite direction, to reject and disdain them. "Work" and "retirement" for example. Over the years, we venture to say, the word "work" has lost much of the virtue it once implied.

"Retirement" meanwhile, has been almost defiled by the insurance fraternity. In fact, reading the ads, a visitor from outer space might be persuaded that people merely mark time until age 65. Unfortunately, as government studies have shown, all too many who retire from work also retire from life, figuratively and literally.

It is against this background that a new study shows four out of five American males would prefer to go right on working—even if someone suddenly gave them enough money to retire on comfortably. The Survey Research Center of the Institute for Social Research at the University of Michigan finds that professionals, managers, sales personnel in general said that their work is too interesting or too full of prestige for them to want to quit. Skilled laborers said that life without work would seem as life without anything to do.

More than two-thirds of the nation's farmers and three-fifths of the men in middle class jobs said they would stay on the job. It is significant that among the different classes of employees, the study showed that almost half the unskilled workers would quit if they did not have to earn a living.

Thus we are again reminded that the plain, unvarnished little word "work" is actually a sparkling elixir of life, properly regarded. And that "retirement," as many in St. Petersburg can testify, is by no means as glamorous a condition as it is advertised to be.

Best Analysis of Adams; Judgment Bad

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The best that can be said for Sherman Adams, the President's No. 1 assistant, is that his judgment was bad. Some Republicans want him thrown out. Democrats will use him as a campaign issue in the 1958 elections.

Any man in public office, like Adams, must decide about accepting gifts or favors from an individual whose interests may conflict with the public interest. Adams accepted.

From what followed Adams left himself open to suspicion of using his influence to repay the gifts or favors, although no one knows better than Adams that the men around a president can ill afford to be in that position.

It was this same highly moralistic New Englander who helped heap suspicion on the men around President Truman in the 1952 campaign when the main Republican theme was "Throw the rascals out."

Many men who feel they have a public trust have a simple rule of life or yardstick which, if employed by Adams, might have saved him from his present embarrassment.

It's this: never accept a gift or favor if it can remotely affect your private conscience or the public interest or even give an impression of doing so. Some members of Congress feel that way. So do some newspapermen. Here's an example:

Take newspaperman Smith. If Jones, a public relations man, gave him an expensive gift and then came around later with a story, Smith would be confronted with this problem:

If he used the story, he might ever afterwards feel he had been influenced to do so, even though only subconsciously, by a sense of gratitude for the gift; if he threw the story away, to avoid such a feeling, he might be unfair to Jones.

So, such a newsman would reason, he never should let himself be in a position of having to worry about judging a story on anything except its merits.

Adams took free hotel accommodations, amounting to $2,000, from a man he called an old family friend: Bernard Goldfine, a Boston businessman. The White House has neither confirmed nor denied reports that Adams also accepted a $700 vicuna coat and a $2,400 rug.

On Goldfine's behalf Adams made inquiries at two government agencies — the Federal Trade Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission—with whom Goldfine was having trouble, and arranged for an interview with the FTC chairman.

Adams denies any insinuations he used his influence—and he has tremendous influence in the government—with the two agencies to benefit Goldfine. But the fact that Adams, President Eisenhower's No. 1 man, even inquired about Goldfine's troubles raises a question:

What is influence? Would the commissioners consider such an inquiry from Adams pressure for Goldfine or a simple, routine query? The commissioners depend on the White House for their jobs, since it's the President who appoints them.

They know Adams doesn't inquire about every businessman in trouble. It seems pretty certain comparatively few businessmen in trouble ever can get within a mile of Adams, much less get him interested in their case.

This is not the first time Adams has figured in the news for going to a government agency for some special group or individual. Yet, because of his job as assistant to the President, he enjoys a sanctuary most citizens don't have.

No congressional investigating committee can force him to appear and answer questions about his conduct. He takes the position he can't be compelled to testify about the affairs of the executive branch of the government.

But Adams wouldn't even face newsmen to answer their questions. He let his side of the case—and it's not clear that it's all been revealed yet—be stated through a public letter and President Eisenhower's press secretary.

A New War Of Roses

Task Of Selecting National Flower Invites Conflicts

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty
Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—The new war of roses may last 30 years, too.

Such issues as extension of the reciprocal trade agreements may seem difficult, but picking the rose as the national flower is certain to take longer.

This relatively simple, apparently harmless bill got the gentlewomen in Congress (who would seem to be the natural sponsors) into more trouble than civil rights. Especially Senator Margaret Chase Smith, of Maine, who wears a rose daily, and Mrs. Frances Bolton of Ohio, who introduced the first rose bill in the House.

During Rose Week, the arguments are again thorny. Who would expect the sweet smelling rose to get mixed up with states rights and endanger our relations with England? But that's what is happening.

Every state seems to think its sovereignty is threatened if its own flower waves above its state flower. New York state is one of the few which wisely looked to future legislation and chose the rose as its state flower. This explains why Congressman Kenneth B. Keating of Rochester, N.Y., dared to speak for the rose at a luncheon sponsored by a national association of rose growers.

Some other states are a bit rose-minded although Georgia and N. Dakota are choosy about the species and Iowa like's 'em wild.

In the nation's capital the choice is the American beauty rose, which is practically out of existence, but the right-to-vote is non-existent here, too.

It would seem Nebraska, Alabama and Kentucky, which choose the goldenrod, would not sneeze at a national rose. Almost anyone would prefer a rose of any color or species to Arizona's giant cactus!

A brave man, indeed, is Congressman Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) who sponsored a resolution to designate the rose as the national flower although his state prefers mountain laurel. Of course, he was helped by the selection of a Philadelphia blonde, Eleanor Herling, as national rose queen. In her court is Pennsylvania queen Nan Carter of Allentown. Scott admits he has trouble with some of his non-nationalistic colleagues who remind him that the rose is the national flower of England. Alaskans seeking statehood appropriately remind the Congress their flower is the forget-me-not. In Missouri it's Hawthorn, which appropriately enough, is a member of the great rose family, closely resembling the apple group.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Diefenbacher, D.D.

Why did God create man? In the first place God is a Being of love. Love cannot be single. It requires a being to be loved and one who can give back love. God created man to love.

Love is not something which can be demanded nor legislated. It is not static. It is not a force which is set in motion and kept running by a motor. It must be constantly desired and deserved. What is more, it has to have an opposite. Hate, or the possibility of all degrees from love to hate, came into existence at the same time.

We must keep our minds and spirits giving and receiving love if we are going to see God. When our thinking moves around the circle to hatred we have turned our backs to God. No one can hate his fellowmen and enjoy the love of God.

When man turns toward hatred he shuts God out of his vision.

Governor Must Wait On Aircraft Plans

Plans of Gov. James T. Blair to have a group of state departments pool their funds to buy an airplane for state use were given the cold shoulder by the state comptroller — the man who approves state bills.

Governor Blair said Dr. John Schwada, state comptroller, didn't think the proposal could be worked out.

The recent general assembly refused an appropriation for the purchase of an executive type airplane for the governor's use. Blair then toyed with the idea of having a group of state departments purchase the plane jointly from their operation funds. Other state officials would also have had the use of the aircraft on business.

Schwada said the plan just wasn't feasible. The money, he said, was appropriated for definite purposes and couldn't be used for the purchase of the aircraft.

It's obvious that one state agency couldn't own a tenth or an eighth of an airplane. And it's plain that members of the legislature wouldn't care to see money provided for the operation of a state agency used partly to purchase a state airplane.

Blair now uses the highway patrol aircraft and National Guard C-47's for some of his travels. The highway commission recently purchased a twin-engine craft for aerial photography and the governor will also be able to borrow this plane for official business trips.

The governor is rightly impatient for a personal airplane that could be used at any time without disrupting the schedule of some other state agency. But he's apparently going to have to wait for the legislature to approve the purchase.

Moberly Prison Work To Start Next Year

Construction of the new medium security prison near Moberly should be started by next spring, according to Marcel Boulicault, architect who is drawing plans for the new prison.

The new prison facility was planned shortly after the 1954 prison riots in Jefferson City. The state's $75 million bond issue was set up mainly to provide funds for the new penitentiary and other needed state buildings.

But the wheels of the state grind exceedingly fine and slow since the choice of Moberly as the site for the new prison. Col. James D. Carter, prison director, and Gov. James T. Blair have been pushing the project along. It takes a great deal of planning to provide a new prison for 1,000 men. Missouri wants the very best and latest for its new prison and it takes time to get it.

Boulicault has already provided preliminary plans and scale models for the ultra-modern Moberly prison. Last minute changes are being added and the architect says the preliminary drawings should be ready before the whole job is put up for bids. The architect estimated that construction could possibly be started by next spring.

Meanwhile, the state is seeking bids July 29 on the renovation of the old state school for Negro girls at Tipton. The institution will be remodeled and turned into a modern women's prison to replace the old institution at Jefferson City. The Tipton inmates have all been transferred to the state school for girls at Chillicothe.

The work at Tipton will include construction of several new buildings and erection of a 10-foot fence around the institution. The contract will call for completion of the work by May 29, 1959.

Contracted By State

The state of Missouri is engaged in at least $30,000,000 worth of new buildings at present, according to incomplete figures from the state capital.

The division of public buildings reports that eleemosynary institutions — that includes the mental hospitals and prison branches — have $7,651,304 worth of building now under contract. The University of Missouri has $10,376,065 in construction now underway and $7,300,000 more in work scheduled for a summer or fall start.

It is impossible to determine in Jefferson City how much construction work is underway at the six state colleges. The state government has no central office to keep tab on all state building work. However, the state colleges are authorized to spend $13,965,200 in state building bond funds for new buildings and repairs to other structures.

The largest construction at mental hospitals is at Fulton where $2,847,553 in work is under contract. The state hospital at Nevada has $1,709,449 in work under contract and state hospital two at St. Joseph has $94,453 worth of construction under way. State hospital four at Farmington has $636,499 in work under contract for repairs and remodeling.

The state prison at Jefferson City has only $74,302 in work under contract at present. The St. Louis training school has contracts totalling $123,142 and the state school at Higginsville has contracted for $1,357,089 for new dormitories.

The university has three dormitories and a married students apartment building under way plus a new engineering department, new business and public administration building, a chapel, and remodeling and additions at three other buildings. Starting this fall will be a library addition at the university plus construction of agriculture and fine arts building.

SHORT SNORTS: Fancy ash trays containing the seal of Missouri presented to governors of other states at the National Governor's conference recently were personal gifts of Gov. and rs. James T. Blair. The governor re-cost the state of Missouri "a single cent." . . . Walter Toberman, secretary of state, indicates that rs. Ula Huss will continue as acting chief clerk in his office for some time. Will Davis, the ports that the ash trays did not director of training schools, was former chief clerk, resigned to campaign for the state senate seat now held by John A. Johnson of Ellington. . . . Choosing Drying Equipment Is Not As Difficult As Before

Conditioning Wheat Properly Key to Success

By Don Brooker
MU Associate Professor of Agricultural Engineering

Wheat harvest will be in full swing in a few weeks, and, about this time of year, we begin to wonder how the weather is going to cooperate with us in getting wheat and other small grains into storage. Of course, this is the season for showers and thunderstorms. Sometimes several days go by when the grain is just a little too damp to put in the bin. Getting into the field when the grain is a few moisture points above the safe storage limit may mean the difference in getting grain out while it is still standing or having to pick up fallow grain. The latter we wait, the more shattering we get and the higher weeds grow.

In order to harvest damp grain, we have to be able to condition it in the storage bin or it won't keep. To do this we need drying equipment.

The job of choosing drying equipment is not nearly as hard now as it was a few years ago. Commercial companies have designed equipment on the basis of university and U.S.D.A. specifications and the well established and reliable companies can provide the right equipment for nearly any farm storage unit.

When it comes to choosing the fan for drying grain in the bin, there is no substitute for dealing with a company that has earned a good reputation. It is a temptation to pick up a used fan or blower or perhaps a fan out of an old threshing machine. Usually these fans were designed to deliver air where there's no pressure in the system. Fans for grain drying must deliver air against pressure in order to force enough air through the grain for a good drying job.

We can use either a duct system or a false floor to carry air into the grain. Here again, the commercial companies have designs for either system. The false floor does the best job of distributing air through the grain. The duct system can be removed from the bin when the bin is emptied, and this is a big factor when we consider cleaning the bin for insect control. Also, duct systems can be built on the farm and this can result in reduced cost.

These in-storage drying systems that we have been discussing can be either of two types. One uses no heat. Outside air is forced through the grain to dry it and keep it cool. This type is satisfactory for wheat harvest if it is designed to fit the amount of grain in storage and is operated properly.

The second type is called the supplemental heater unit. This type uses a small heater in front of the fan to warm air a few degrees. With this unit drying can progress faster on humid days. The supplemental heater unit is advised where grain will be dried in the fall, too, when air contains less heat for drying than early summer months.

So, with artificial grain drying, it's possible to really save money. First, you can harvest as soon as the grain is ready. Secondly, the quality of the grain is under control at all times. And, finally, the grain can be kept safely in storage until the market reaches the best point for selling.

Early Spraying Can Keep Away Bagworms

If bagworms were a problem on your low shrubs and evergreens last year, you'll want to get after this pest early this season.

The time is here for eggs to hatch from old bags that have overwintered on those shrubs. University of Missouri extension entomologists say you can get a good control over bagworms if you spray just as soon as worms start coming out.

The dosage, two tablespoons 65 per cent toxaphene emulsifiable concentrate to one gallon water. When properly timed, this toxaphene solution will take care of bagworms for the entire season.

Inspection of Steaming Pool Fatal to Boy, 6

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP)—A 6-year-old boy's curious inspection of a steaming pool of water near Old Faithful geyser led to death.

Danny Lewis of Austin, Minn., lost his balance and fell into the natural formation Friday. He died yesterday of second and third degree burns over his entire body. Danny had been fishing with his father William Lewis in a clear stream nearby. The father pulled him from the boiling pool, one of several thousand in the park.

The table above provides a way to find the pounds of effective calcium there is in a ton of limestone, say University of Missouri extension soils specialists. Anyone using the table needs to know the percent of calcium carbonate present in the lime they're considering and also the percent of the crushed product that goes through a 40-mesh screen. In the example used here, the shaded area shows there are 262 pounds of effective calcium in each ton of limestone containing 80 percent calcium carbonate and crushed so that 40 percent goes through a 40-mesh screen.

GOOD FARMING

in Pettis County

By MERLE VAUGHAN
County Extension Agent

Participating in 4-H Club Week

I had the opportunity last week to participate in the State 4-H Club Week at Columbia. It lasted from noon Wednesday to noon Saturday and appeared to be time very well spent by those that participated. Its theme was "Preparing Today For Living Tomorrow."

I was particularly glad to attend as I had not been to one previously. They were started in 1946, the year we moved to Pettis County. Before that it was a combination of 4-H Week and State Achievement Day and held later in the year. I had attended this annually whenever it was held from 1935 to 1945. Believe me, some changes have been made in these 12 years since.

The opportunity to go arose when Mr. Fox, who normally works with the 4-Hers, had the opportunity to make a trip to the southwest. Miss O'Brian helped take the group over and then returned to leave for Summer School at Fort Collins, Colo. last Friday. Those that she took over and the three that came later rode back on a bus of Henry and Bates County 4-Hers.

Could Take 2 1/2 per cent of Enrollment

We were actually entitled to take 2 1/2 per cent of our 4-H enrollment of nearly 600 youngsters. Twelve made application to go and were approved. Then one of those was injured playing basketball and another had the opportunity to work stripping bluegrass so decided not to go.

Our group included, Delta Reine, Marilyn Reid, Anita Rhoads, Lucille Rugen, Sara Gayle Oswald, Leland Finley, Bill Raines, Larry Callis, Bob Lefwich, and Barry Ellis. The girls roomed in two college dormitories, Cramer and Stafford and the boys in DeFoe and Graham. All the 800 youngsters ate at the Crowder Hall Cafeteria. The general meetings were at Jesse Hall.

Another girl, Caroline Staley, came over Friday noon to participate in a Key Award luncheon given by City Service Co. She and Glenda Rhodes actually received the awards at Recognition Night last November. Glenda could not get over in time for the Key Award luncheon but she and Jeanette Edmundson came over Friday evening to practice for the Citizenship program Saturday a.m. This award is made to folks who have become 21 years of age since the last 4-H Club Week.

Fine Program

A very fine program was arranged. However, the youngsters are supposed to report back to their own clubs and to other groups so I will say nothing about it except some of the speakers, their topics and background.

The group was welcomed by Extension Director, J. W. Burch. A representative of the President of the University told them something of the background and history of the University.

Outstanding talks were given by three speakers. They included Dr. Carl S. Winters, minister of the First Baptist Church of Oak Park, Ill. His topic was "Today's Youth and Tomorrow's World".

Mention was made that the General Motors Co. is so well sold on Dr. Winters' ability and with the 4-H program that they will pay his expenses nearly anywhere he talks to 4-H groups.

Another speaker with a very timely topic for this age youth was Dr. Clark Ellzey, department of marriage education, Stephens College. Dr. Ellzey had been on last year's program and was enthusiastically invited back this year. He discussed "Have You Got What It Takes?" The third speaker discussed "You, The Person The World Is Needing". She was Iris Davenport, women's editor, women's department, Farm and Ranch, Nashville, Tenn.

More Feed Cattle Are Expected On the Market

USDA's Ag Marketing Service says we're going to have more feed cattle on the market the last half of 1958 than was the case in '57.

Fed cattle marketings have begun to rise, they say, so it's predicted that market prices for fed cattle will go down moderately during the summer months. Prices are expected to level out this fall somewhere around 1957 prices.

Another note, Ag Marketing Service says cattlemen are holding back breeding stock to build up herds. This will probably prevent large marketing increases this year, but there'll likely be more cattle on farms come Jan. 1, 1959.

If this happens, the downward phase of the current cattle cycle would be only two years, shortest on record.

So, although the prospective decline in fed cattle prices will likely prevent a rapid increase in number, the possible danger, as USDA marketeers see it, is that too many cattle will be withheld from market, and herds will build up too fast.

You can see what this cycle would be. Withholdings would reduce marketings, raise prices. Rising prices would tempt producers to withhold more cattle. Eventually, marketings would increase and prices would plummet.

To Court for Son's Theft of Poor Boxes

NEW YORK (AP)—A woman appeared in Felony Court yesterday and said her 20-year-old son had been robbing poor boxes since he was 7.

Mrs. Mary Knudsen of Brooklyn wept as she talked to Magistrate Manuel Gomez about her son John.

The youth was arrested Saturday in Holy Cross Roman Catholic Church on Manhattan's West Side by police concealed there to solve a series of thefts.

Knudsen, who carried pliers and a pair of tweezers, reportedly told detectives he got bills from the poor boxes with tweezers if pliers didn't work.

He was arraigned on a charge of possessing burglar tools and sent to Bellevue Hospital for mental observation.

Another Surprise

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Chan Wing Gaw, opening the small restaurant he operates, was greeted by a man who apparently had been asleep on the floor behind the counter.

"Good morning, amigo," said the stranger, and walked casually out of the restaurant.

By the time Gaw recovered from the surprise the visitor was out of sight — and so was $150 from the cash register.

Henry County's Assistant Agent Has Scholarship

Seven Missouri county Extension workers have been awarded scholarships to attend summer school session.

According to J. W. Burch, director, Missouri Agricultural Extension Service, two of the extension workers have been granted 200 dollar awards by National 4-H Club Foundation and the Sears Roebuck Foundation. The two, Mrs. Margaret Bodle, Clinton County home agent, and Wayne Thomas, Henry County assistant agent and son of Mr. and Mrs. Clay Thomas of northeast Pettis County, will attend a four-week workshop at Cornell University.

Linn County Home Agent Mrs. Allene Hudson and Ozark County Associate Agent Martin Engelbrecht will attend a three-week session at Colorado State University. They're receiving $100 Moses Foundation scholarships.

Burch says Miss Virginia Norris, Shelby County home agent, Ed Schwartzky, Lafayette County agent, and Keith Berge, associate agent in Holt County, will receive $100 Farm Foundation scholarships. Miss Norris and Berge will attend University of Wisconsin summer session. Schwartzky goes to Colorado State University.

Farm Youth Exchangee Has Arrived in US

Missouri's first International Farm Youth Exchangee for 1958 has arrived in the state. Pekka Antero Pastila (Pas 'til-la), 19, from Finland, was welcomed in Columbia by John Burkeholder, University of Missouri Extension Service state 4-H agent, as the young Finnish lad stepped from a bus.

The slender, blond young man will spend June and July with host Missouri farm families. From August until he leaves the U. S. in November, Pastila will visit farm families in Massachusetts.

The rest of this month he's staying with the Wesley Schulze family of Warrenton.

Burkeholder says the youth from Finland is the first of probably nine exchangees that will visit Missouri farms this year. Four Missouri 4-Hers will tour other countries this summer as this state's members in the youth exchange.

Sixty countries take part in the International Farm Youth Exchange. Funds for the program come from private contributions. The IFYE program is directed by National 4-H Foundation and the Cooperative Extension Service.

Fewer Cholera Vaccinations Given to Pigs

A gradual drop in numbers of pigs vaccinated against hog cholera is causing a certain amount of concern. U. S. Department of Agriculture says swine breeders and farm organizations have expressed concern over the drop.

For a number of years prior to 1952, an average of about 50 per cent of pigs were vaccinated against hog cholera. But during the past five years, the number of animals vaccinated has dropped to a low of just under 40 per cent of the nation's pig crop in 1957.

Hog cholera occurs in every state and is most prevalent in the Midwest. It is the most serious of all swine infections. There's no cure or dependable treatment, but vaccines are effective.

Swine breeders and farm organizations are fearful that a continued decline in vaccinations and, consequently, in the production of vaccine might leave hog raisers without enough hog-cholera serum in case of an extensive outbreak.

Officials of USDA's Agricultural Research Service say there's no evidence now that hog cholera is increasing. However, they say that fewer vaccinations could mean increased chances of costly outbreaks of the disease. Spring and fall are peak seasons for vaccinating hogs against cholera.

New Poultry Housing Plan Is Produced by University

By Walter Russell
MU Extension Poultryman

If you are thinking about building a new poultry house or remodeling your old one — then you may be interested in the University of Missouri's new poultry housing plan. It's a plan which combines the brooding, growing, and laying units all in one house.

The plan itself is the result of three years of experimental work. We know it will work successfully to grow birds of different ages in the same building, provided certain conditions are met. The first important requirement is to start with a strain of birds that are known to have some resistance to disease. Second, birds should be vaccinated against Newcastle, Bronchitis and Fowl Pox diseases, and third, birds should be raised on old built up litter.

Using the best principles of housing and management that we know, we have developed a complete plan for a 1000 laying hen operation. It's available to you through your County Extension Agent or by writing direct to the Missouri College of Agriculture.

The house we recommend is similar to the Blue Ribbon Plan provided by the Weekly Star Farmer. It is 30 by 160 feet, has a south-open front, and is equipped with feed room, track and feed carrier, automatic waterers, and droppings pits. The house is divided into five pens, each of which are 30 feet long.

We recommend starting the chicks in the first unit sometime around Feb. 15. As birds grow, requiring more space, the next unit is opened to their use. Mature birds occupying the second unit at that time are moved into the remaining three pens. The moving date, according to the plan, is around May 1st. Another move is made on July 1st, just before the young pullets start into production. The last two pens in the house are then used to house yearling hens which are kept over for an additional three to four months of lay.

This modern type of poultry production has some distinct advantages. It requires less labor. By raising all birds in confinement in one house you save time and energy in caring for the flock. You make better use of building and equipment throughout the year. Instead of having a brooder house that is used only two months out of the year, this plan uses the brooding unit every month of the year.

A very important feature of the plan is the variable floor space allotment for each season of the year. During the winter months, when most poultrymen have trouble with damp litter, the plan allows nearly four square feet of floor space per bird. This should lessen the damp litter problem. During the summer months, the floor space allotment is reduced to 2 1/2 square feet per bird. The all-in-one house plan includes drawings and pictures to aid in constructing the building. It includes a systematic management plan that describes all the major jobs to be performed.

Don't Allow Chiggers To Interfere With Your Outdoor Living

If you're tired of putting up with those little, chewing insects called chiggers in your lawn every summer, listen to this. You don't have to tolerate chiggers every time you go out on the lawn to sit in the shade or watch the kids play.

University of Missouri extension entomologists suggest you spray your lawn, or the parts used most, at least, and get rid of those chiggers.

Here's the spray to use, one and one-fourth cup of 65 per cent toxaphene to five gallons of water. This mixture of toxaphene will cover about 1000 square feet of lawn.

Spray the toxaphene until the grass is fairly wet, but don't soak the soil.

This ought to take care of those chiggers and let you enjoy your lawn this summer.

Social Security To Be Discussed In House Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The biennial election-year drive in Congress to liberalize Social Security benefits opens today before the House Ways and Means Committee.

With the possible exception of cost-of-living increases for some classes of old-age beneficiaries, the Eisenhower administration is opposed to any across-the-board liberalization of benefits.

For the first time in its history the system this year is paying out more in benefits than it is taking in, although trustees reported to Congress last Friday the situation is temporary and not unexpected.

But the political appeal of doing something for the "old folks" is strong in Congress. In 1950, 1952, 1954 and 1956 Congress voted to liberalize the system. And 1958 is another election year.

This year more than 400 bills are before the ways and means committee. They call for a variety of changes ranging from obscure benefits to government-paid financing of hospital and medical expenses.

Consideration of any broad-scale revisions of the law probably will be left for the next Congress, but improvements in the scale of benefits are considered possible this year. These benefits now average around $66 a month for the nearly 11 million pensioners drawing payments under the system.

Oyster Shells, Good Ventilation Can Cut Down on Cracked Eggs

If you've noticed more broken or cracked eggs than usual in your poultry house, here's a suggestion that may help you. University of Missouri extension poultrymen say egg shells tend to become thinner when summer temperatures are highest. Sometimes an increase in Vitamin D or calcium in the summer ration may help hens lay eggs with more sturdy shells.

Extension poultrymen suggest keep plenty of oyster shells in front of laying flock, and open doors and windows in house to keep hens cool as possible.

Older Person Present Is Swimm' Hole Rule

As summer temperatures climb, the skin of young boys, especially, seems to have an affinity to water — not bath water, but water of the "swimm' hole."

Now, the farm pond or swimmin' hole can be, and is, a lot of fun in the summer, but it can be dangerous, too. The Missouri Rural Safety Council says it's always a good rule to have an older person present when youngsters are in the water.

Don't let an accident ruin summer swimming fun.

Haddix Hurls Shutout; Reds Win Twin Bill

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press

Harvey Haddix pitched his best game of the year for Cincinnati yesterday as the Redlegs swept a doubleheader from Chicago 7-0 and 4-2.

The little left-hander permitted only seven hits in the opener in pitching the team's third shutout in a span of five games. The double triumph gave Birdie Tebbetts' crew 11 victories in the last 16 games. They are in third position, 3½ games behind the league leading Milwaukee Braves.

The Braves came from behind to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-2 and retain their 1½ game advantage over the runner-up San Francisco Giants, who defeated Philadelphia 3-1. Three Pittsburgh home runs in one inning highlighted the Pirates' 12-1 rout of the Dodgers in Los Angeles.

All four doubleheaders in the American League resulted in sweeps. The Detroit Tigers shut out the New York Yankees 2-0 and 3-0 behind Frank Lary and Jim Bunning for a sweep of the four-game series. Chicago handed the same medicine to Baltimore, behind Jim Wilson and Dick Donovan, 3-0 and 4-0. Cleveland defeated Washington 5-3 and 4-2 and Kansas City whipped Boston 17-6 and 9-4.

Pete Whisenant paced the Redlegs' first game attack against the Cubs' Taylor Phillips, losing his first after four victories. Whisenant doubled home two runs in the seventh and hit a three-run homer in the ninth. Relievers Tom Acker and Johnny Klippstein halted several Cub threats in the second game after Cincinnati had scored two runs in each of the first two innings off loser Dick Drott.

Harry Hanebrink, a 169 hitting outfielder, smacked a two-run homer to feature a three-run inning that earned the Braves their comeback victory over St. Louis. Reliever Don McMahon won his sixth against one defeat.

At Worthington, making his first start since April 18, stopped the Phillies with eight hits as the Giants took the rubber game of the three-game series. The loser was Curt Simmons.

Pittsburgh's Frank Thomas, forced to leave in the fifth when he was hit on the hand by a pitched ball, boosted his league leading homer total to 20 and his RBI total to 61. X-rays showed no broken bones in Thomas' hand.

Newcombe dropped his sixth without a victory.

Elgin Baylor Gets Job Of Saving Minneapolis Lakers' Franchise

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—All-America Elgin Baylor, signed by the Minneapolis Lakers for a reported $20,000, was handed the monumental job today of saving the franchise of a team that was once pro basketball's greatest.

It is the kind of assignment that may outstretch any heroics the 6 foot 6 inch star performed for Seattle University, a school he is leaving with one year of eligibility left.

Laker President Robert Short was frank about it:

"If Baylor can't help us back on our feet we're finished. Nobody in the National Basketball Assn. wants us in the league. I'm not sure if some of our own board members do."

Baylor was the Lakers' No. 1 draft choice and therefore the league's because Minneapolis finished in last place last year—practically out of sight—and had first crack.

Baylor averaged 32.5 points a game last season in finishing behind Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson among big college scoring aces.

Suggs Says Her Game Has Improved Lately

MARBLEHEAD, Mass. (AP)—Louise Suggs says her golf game is better than it has been in a long time. As proof, she points to three victories in the last five tournaments.

"I've been hitting the ball very well this week," the affable Sea Island, Ga., veteran said Sunday after winning the $12,000 Round Robin Women's Invitation tournament at Tedesco Country Club.

"In fact, I've been hitting the ball better than I have in a long time," she added. "I've been working on timing and keeping within myself."

"I'm not trying to hit so hard. Instead, I've been concentrating on just meeting the ball firmly."

Tito and Soviet Bloc Clash in Disagreement

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito and the Soviet bloc swapped broadsides Sunday. Tito defended his acceptance of U.S. aid, and Peiping radio compared him with Judas Iscariot for taking the American help.

Tito asked a crowd of 50,000 in the coal mining town of Labin what right Nikita Khrushchev had to attack Yugoslavia for getting U.S. aid when the Soviet Premier himself was soliciting credit from Washington.

Tigers Take Two Shutouts From Yankees

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press

The suddenly snarling Detroit Tigers are the hottest team in the major leagues right now, but they continue to be the enigma of the baseball world.

How can one team be so futile under one manager and so ferocious under another? It's certainly not that Jack Tighe was a bad manager, or that Bill Norman, who succeeded Tighe a week ago, has been waving a magic wand.

Still, the figures are there. Under Tighe, the Tigers won 21 of 49 for a 42.9 percentage. With Norman, they've won six of seven, including a spectacular sweep of the four-game series from the New York Yankees in Yankee Stadium.

Frank Lary and Jim Bunning did the pitching for Detroit yesterday as the Tigers shut out the American League leaders twice 2-0 and 3-0. Ossia Virgil, Harvey Kuenn and Gail Harris drove in the key runs in the first double shutout the Yankees have suffered in 11 years.

Charlie Maxwell, Virgil and Harris came up with spectacular defensive plays to thwart several Yankee bids.

And the Tigers, in last place a week ago, are now fifth, only two games behind second-place Boston.

Kansas City smacked Boston down in a double-header 17-6 and 9-4. Cleveland took two from Washington 5-3 and 4-2 and Chicago shut out Baltimore twice 3-0 and 4-0.

In the National League, Cincinnati dominated the Chicago Cubs 7-0 and 4-2. Milwaukee defeated St. Louis 4-2. San Francisco topped Philadelphia 3-1 and Pittsburgh thrashed Los Angeles 12-1.

Not since Philadelphia's Carl Scheib and Dick Fowler hurled back-to-back shutouts on May 30, 1947, have two pitchers been able to blank the Yankees twice in one afternoon. Don Larsen (5-1) and Bob Turley (10-2) were the victors.

Bob Cerv, Hector Lopez and Chico Carrasquel spearheaded the Athletics to their double triumph that moved them to within half a game of the Red Sox. Cerv, league leader in home runs and runs batted in, walloped his 17th homer, three triples and a pair of singles and drove in five runs in boost his RBI total to 51.

Lopez drove in four runs in the opener and two more in the second game. Carrasquel, obtained Thursday from Cleveland, had seven hits, five in the first game.

Vic Power, traded to Cleveland after the twin bill, hit safely in each game to extend his batting streak to 22 straight games. Duke Maas, traded to the Yankees, went the distance in the nightcap.

The White Sox moved out of last place behind pitchers Jim Wilson and Dick Donovan. Wilson faced a minimum of 27 batters in the opener although he gave up two singles to Baltimore. Donovan allowed seven hits.

Mickey Vernon got five hits in Cleveland's sweep over Washington. The 40-year-old first baseman hit a single, double and fifth homer and drove in two runs in the first game. In the second, Preston Ward, later traded to Kansas City, drove in two runs with a single and a home run.

AL Looks New As Result Of Trading Spree

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati's fast-moving Redlegs have Don Newcombe and the American League has a "new look" today after a frenzied final-day swapping spree shortly before the majors' midnight trading deadline.

Newcombe, pitching ace of the Dodgers for nearly a decade but a winless, 0-6 flop in seven starts as a transplanted Californian, went to the Redlegs in an 11th-hour deal that sent right-hander Johnny Klippstein, first baseman Steve Bilko and cash to Los Angeles.

In the only other National League trade, St. Louis sent shortstop Dick Schofield and cash to Pittsburgh for utility infielders Gene Freese and Johnny O'Brien.

By contrast, five of the eight American League clubs had a hand in the busy late-hour dealings.

Three major trades—involving Kansas City, Cleveland, New York, Detroit and Chicago—followed on the heels of an earlier deal between the Athletics and Indians.

The Athletics now have Preston Ward (Cleveland) at first base; Chico Carrasquel (Cleveland), third base; Roger Maris (Cleveland), right field; Harry Simpson (New York), left field; and pitchers Dick Tomaneck (Cleveland) and Bob Giam (New York).

The Indians, who have only 12 of their 25 players left since Frank Lane took over as the team's general manager last November, now have Vic Power (Kansas City) at first base; Billy Hunter (Kansas City), second; and Woody Held (Kansas City), center field.

The Yankees now have pitchers Duke Maas and Virgil Trucks (both formerly with Kansas City).

Detroit obtained outfielder Tito Francona and pitcher Bill Fischer from Chicago for first baseman Ray Boone and pitcher Bob Shaw.

In the only National League trade, St. Louis sent shortstop Dick Schofield and cash to Pittsburgh for utility infielders Gene Freese and Johnny O'Brien.

The Yankees also brought up pitcher Zach Monro (10-2 at Denver) to replace veteran Sal Maglie, who was sold to the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday.

Entry List in Men's Trans-Miss Meet Grows

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP)—The entry list of the men's Trans-Mississippi amateur golf tournament was expected to grow today with the arrival of golfers who competed in the National Open at Tulsa last week.

Eighteen-hole qualifying rounds will be played today and tomorrow. The low 64 shooters will start match play in the championship flight Wednesday.

In a practice round Saturday defending champion Rex Baxter of Amarillo, Tex., showed he will be tough to beat.

He shot a 1-under-par 69 on the 6,526-yard Prairie Dunes Golf course. That was the fourth best score ever made on the course.

One of the better ones was a 3-under 67 by Marti Sidener of Dallas, Tex., in practice Friday.

Other entries include Jimmy Jackson of St. Louis, former Trans-Miss champion; John Zinnak, runner-up to Baxter last year, and Jim Vickers of Wichita, Kan., the 1950 NCAA champion.

TU104 Cancels Flight, Fears US Interception

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—The possibility of interception by U.S. Air Force jet fighters Sunday put a damper on a courtesy flight by the Soviet Union's TU104 jet airliner on exhibition here.

The plane, biggest attraction at the Centennial Air Show, was scheduled to fly 75 miles from Sea Island Airport to Victoria, the British Columbia capital on Vancouver Island.

It flew instead in the Greater Vancouver area after Royal Canadian Air Force officials said they had been unable to gain assurances from the U.S. Air Force that the Soviet aircraft would not be challenged by U.S. fighters should it cross the international boundary.

On the flight originally scheduled for the TU104, a slight drift could have taken the aircraft over the U.S. island of San Juan, which juts into Canadian waters in the Straits of Georgia.

A's Bomb Sox; Harry Craft Has Fine Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's too bad ever day isn't June 15 for Harry Craft and his Kansas City Athletics.

The A's played both games of a double header under the gun of the trade deadline as if each player was afraid of being traded. They bombed the Boston Red Sox 17-6 and 9-4, smashing a total of 28 hits.

Then they learned that four players had been traded. Woody Held and Vic Power went to Cleveland and Duke Maas and Virgil Trucks went to New York.

In return the Athletics received Harry Simpson and Bob Grim from the Yanks and Roger Maris, Preston Ward and Dick Tomaneck from the Indians.

Bob Cerv, Hector Lopez and Chico Carrasquel led the offense as the A's moved to within a half game of the second place Red Sox.

Cerv, the American League leader in homers and runs batted in, collected his 17th circuit smash, three triples and a pair of singles. He drove in five runs to boost his total to 51.

Lopez drove in four runs in the first game with a double, a single and a sacrifice, then sent two across in the nightcap with a two-batter. Carrasquel, obtained Thursday night in a trade with Cleveland, had seven hits, including two doubles, in 11 times at bat. He drove in four runs.

Milwaukee's St. Louis-born Harry Hanebrink couldn't have picked a worse spot for his first hit off St. Louis pitching. Hitting a puny 169 and hitless in 10 previous trips against Card pitchers, Hanebrink clubbed a two-out, two-run homer in the ninth inning. It gave the Braves a 4-2 victory in the rubber game of a 3-game series.

Sad Sam Jones, the hard-luck Cardinal right-hander, pitched well enough to win. Sam left in the eighth with a 2-0 lead, the bases jammed and two out. Morrie Martin took over and his balk sent in the first Milwaukee run.

Lindy McDaniel came in for Martin with two on in the ninth and took the defeat. Johnny Logan's perfect squeeze bunt tied the score.

Smoky Joe Cunningham's two-run homer in the sixth gave the Cards a 2-0 lead and broke up a great pitching duel between Jones and Bob Rush.

The Cardinals ended their home standing with a 10-6 record.

MU, Holy Cross Vie Tonight In NCAA Tourney

OMAHA (AP)—Two dark horses Holy Cross and Missouri, meet tonight in a battle of the unbeaten in the NCAA World Series of basketball. Both showed power and steady pitching in crushing their opponents last night.

In the other games today, Western Michigan meets Clemson at 2 p.m. (CST) and Southern California plays Colorado State at 6 p.m. Each has a 1-1 record as the tourney enters its third round.

Pitcher Martin (Bo) Toft clouted a 370-foot homer, hit a sacrifice fly and had two infield singles for four RBIs as Missouri crushed Colorado State 11-2 last night.

Missouri put the game on ice in the seventh, scoring five runs on just two singles. John O'Donoghue, an 18-year-old sophomore, went the route for the Tigers after surviving two shakey innings—the first and third.

Larry Rancourt and Jack Ringler homered to pace a 19-hit attack against four pitchers as Holy Cross hung a 17-4 defeat on Clemson.

Bill Topp pitched steady five-hit ball and turned hero at the plate in the 10th inning as he rapped a four-bagger to give Western Michigan a 4-3 squeeze over little Lafayette. The loss eliminated Lafayette.

Southern California ace Bruce Gardner tossed the first shutout at Arizona in 51 games as the Trojans won handily 4-0. It was Gardner's 12th victory against one defeat this season and eliminated Arizona.

Bolt Learns Lesson of Golf; Gets National Open Victory

TULSA (AP)—It took a dozen years of playing professional golf to teach Tommy Bolt the meaning of the old saying about golf being a humbling game. Once he learned that lesson, Bolt, one of the game's most controversial figures, got "what I've always wanted"—the National Open championship.

He won the title on the sweltering Southern Hills course last Saturday by playing the conservative, non-gambling kind of golf that lets the other fellow beat himself. He scored 71-71-69-71—283, three strokes over par.

Bolt likely will turn out to be the most colorful Open champion in recent years.

Bolt is 39, started on the golf tour after serving with the Army in Italy during World War II and won his first tournament in 1951.

Billy Graham Wants Fervor To Linger

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Billy Graham, who has ended his seven-week evangelistic battle with the Devil here, wants the fervor to linger.

"Carry the spirit of revival back to your churches," he told a crowd of 18,500 jammed into the Cow Palace for the final crusade session yesterday.

"Get into that church," Graham pleaded. "If you wait a week or two, Satan will take advantage of you."

He declared to the throng packed into the 16,500-seat arena that "some of you are like Judas. You are greedy and will sell your soul and your future for a few pieces of silver. Some of those who steal from God are those with the most money."

Turning to another matter of money, the North Carolina preacher said advance contributions and weekday offerings for the free meetings might not have met all expenses of the crusade, which he estimated at $400,000.

As assistants toured the aisles collecting offerings, he asked "that you give generously to make sure all expenses are met." Totals were not immediately available.

Total attendance for the seven weeks rose to 696,525. The 570 going forward in "decisions for Christ" brought that total to 25,575.

"If you live less than your best you are committing a sin. Just enough religion to be respectable is one of the sins that nailed Jesus to the cross," Graham said.

"Christ went a long way for you. You can take a few steps for him."

After visiting Yosemite National Park tomorrow with his 13-year-old daughter, Virginia, Graham

Already under way is the Midwest Newspaper Circulation Managers Assn. meeting, attended by 120 members from Wyoming, Nebraska, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas.

Woman Dies in Wreck Near Gray Summit

GRAY SUMMIT, Mo. (AP) — A woman was killed and three persons hurt in a three-car wreck on U. S. Highway 66 near here Sunday.

The dead woman was Betty Cehrt of nearby Washington, Mo. She was a passenger in a pickup truck driven by Cecelia Freie, 46, of St. Clair, Mo.

Also injured were Miss Silvia Minor, Chicago, and Mrs. Dorothy Wayne, 55, Milwaukee.

The Highway Patrol said Miss Freie's truck apparently struck a car driven by Frederick Wood, 64, of Chicago. Miss Minor was riding in the Wood car.

Wood was towing a house trailer behind his car and it was hit by a car driven by William Wayne, 59, of Milwaukee.

Neither of the men was hurt.

will rest until Sunday when he will speak at a Seals Stadium rally here. Then he'll tour California.

ON MISSION TOUR — Miss Alysce Ann Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Olson, Hughesville, was selected by the Hughesville Bethel WSCS and MYF to go on an 11-day mission educational tour through Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, Colorado and over the border to Juarez, Mexico. She is with a group of 35 other young people. Miss Olson is a student at Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, majoring in elementary teaching.

Decision to Be Made On Unemployment

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gov. James T. Blair says a decision will be made soon on whether Missouri should take part in a new federal program for extending unemployment compensation.

The governor said he has asked Atty. Gen. John M. Dalton for an opinion as to what would be required for Missouri's participation. The decision should be made in the next week or so, the governor said.

Dalton said he thought it would require a change in state law.

No Contracts, No Sailing For Unions

NEW YORK (AP) — Two maritime unions struck today, refusing to sail without contracts.

The walkout of 1,700 engineers and 10,000 unlicensed tanker seamen could tie up nearly 700 American-flag ships operating out of East and Gulf Coast ports.

The striking unions, the Marine Engineers Beneficial Assn. and the National Maritime Union, said negotiations would pick up again later in the day. Meanwhile, they said, "no contract, no sailing."

The engineers are employed on 448 dry cargo and passenger ships, the 10,000 seamen on 231 oil tankers.

There is no large passenger ship berthed in New York now and none is expected to sail before Wednesday. The walkouts do not affect ships at sea.

The Marine Engineers struck after the union rejected a contract offer by the Dry Cargo and Passenger Ship Operators.

The strike by the tanker seamen was unexpected. The NMU had tentatively approved a three-year contract covering about 30,000 unlicensed seamen employed on the dry cargo and passenger ships.

A third union, the American Radio Assn., bargained through the night and into the daytime hours with shipowners on behalf of radio operators.

Radio men earn $569 a month for a 40-hour week.

All contracts expired last midnight. The Engineers' contract with the tankers runs until next year.

The Engineers negotiations broke down over four major items, the union said. They were: Increases in retirement pensions from $100 to $250 a month; increases in paid vacations, "substantial" wage increases and a clause providing that if an operator sells or transfers his ship the MEBA contract must follow the ship or the operator must pay one year's severance pay.

Engineers pay ranges from $493 a month for junior engineers to $1,052 for chief engineers.

Adlai Begins Tour

LONDON (AP) — Adlai Stevenson arrived in London today to start a tour of European countries, including the Soviet Union. The former Democratic presidential nominee told newsmen, "I hope to go on to Siberia for some sightseeing there—but I hope it's not for keeps."

NAVY ENLISTEES—David G. Curry, Thomas A. Moser, Sheridan E. Bohon, Muri E. Steele, Ira Knox, Jr. and John D. Ressel, all of Sedalia, enlisted in the Navy on June 5 through the local Navy recruiting station, it was announced today by Navy Recruiter Howard Jones.

Curry, Moser and Ressel are graduates of Sacred Heart High School with the class of 1958, while Bohon, Knox and Steele are graduates of Smith-Cotton High School with the class of 1958.

Daily Record

Magistrate Court • Circuit Court

Kenneth Christian Lange, 1314 East 14th, pleaded guilty to a charge of careless and imprudent driving by allowing his car to run off the road and overturn, and was fined $25 and costs. Trooper Robert Stockdell said he was called to investigate an accident near Bothwell Lodge on Highway 65 north of Sedalia and found Lange's car overturned in the ditch.

Dorothy Bowen Mason, 319 West Tenth, pleaded guilty to a charge of careless and imprudent driving by passing on Dead Man's Curve west of Sedalia on Highway 50, where the view ahead was obstructed, and was fined $25 and costs. At the request of George W. Anson, who explained that Mrs. Mason was taking her children to the hospital at Whiteman AFB, Judge Frank Armstrong suspended the fine on condition that Mrs. Mason does not appear in Magistrate Court again.

Three Negro youths were tried jointly on a common charge of gambling with dice and were each fined $5, and the three were charged a total of $14.50 court costs. The men involved were Cleo Washington, George William Lewis and Mayo Eugene Gray. All three pleaded innocent, but were found guilty by Judge Frank Armstrong.

Sedalia police received a call March 24 that a dice game was in progress behind the Main Street Bar. When the police arrived, they found the three men engaged in the game. The men said in court that they had found the dice, and were rolling "high dice" to see who would pay an extra nickel on a bottle of wine. Police testified, however, that the men were shooting dice for money. Police identified the dice and 75 cents in cash they had confiscated. Judge Armstrong ordered the money returned to the men and the dice confiscated.

Earl Edward Williams, Green Ridge, pleaded guilty to a charge of careless and imprudent driving by following too closely, and was fined $25 and costs. He was driving a truck for the Howard Construction Co. on June 13, and following another car downhill. The car ahead met a house trailer being towed and slowed down suddenly. Williams, who had been applying his brakes going down the hill, was unable to stop the loaded truck before it hit the car ahead. No one was injured.

John Dean McDaniel, Whiteman AFB, pleaded guilty to a charge of careless and imprudent driving by passing on a hill where the view ahead was obstructed, and was fined $25 and costs. He was stopped by the Highway Patrol June 9 on Highway 50 near LaMonte.

Fine Rose Grower Dies

ANTIBES, France (AP) — Francis Meilian, world-famous rose grower, died Sunday at the height of the rose season on the French Riviera. He was 46. His room was banked with his favorite flower to the end.

Henrietta Snodgrass filed a petition for divorce against Billy C. Snodgrass in Circuit Court June 13. George H. Miller is the attorney for the plaintiff.

Earl L. Spellmeyer filed a petition for divorce against Lula Spellmeyer in Circuit Court June 13. Lamm and Barnett are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

Dee and Edgar Gardner filed a petition for $912 damages against Lloyd and Mona Burton in Circuit Court June 13. The plaintiffs claim the damages as a result of a truck-train accident on the MKT line near Clayville on Sept. 30, 1957. They claim the defendant was hauling a load of feeder cattle for them when the truck got stuck, and was hit by an MKT train. They state eight head of cattle were destroyed and four head damaged.

William B. Hockaday was granted a divorce from Alma Deane Hockaday in Circuit Court June 14. Crawford and Harlan were the attorneys for the plaintiff.

St. Louis Woman Dies In Auto Accident

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A young St. Louis woman was fatally injured last night when she was thrown from the car in which she was riding and it skidded over her.

The Highway Patrol said June Ann Coghill, 28 (of 4983 Itaska St.) was riding in a car driven by Earl E. Coghill, 62, (same address) when it collided with another car two miles north of here on U. S. Highway 85-87.

Miss Coghill was dragged 57 feet under the car after she was thrown out, officers said. She died at a hospital here four hours later.

Coghill suffered face cuts and a broken right leg. He was taken to Glockner - Penrose Hospital here.

No new negotiation sessions are scheduled.

The strike affects some 1,500 employees. They belong to International Chemical Workers Local 12.

Union officials said talks may be held early this week.

Unsuitable Answers To Wife Advertisement

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Carl Lullen, 37-year-old widower from Sligo, Ky., recently advertised in newspapers for a wife. He got only three answers and none suited him, mainly because the women who answered were too old.

But, undaunted, Lullen says he'll keep trying because he needs a wife "to housekeep for me and my two kids."

Kansas Is First In AAA Contest; 10 City Winners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kansas is the top winner among states in the 1957 American Automobile Assn. contest aimed at saving lives of pedestrians.

Ten cities in Kansas and Missouri also were among award winners announced yesterday.

Judges said reasons for Kansas' selection as the grand prize winner among states included its rural sidewalk construction campaign, safe walking program sponsored by Boy Scouts and 4-H clubs, continuous organization of school safety patrols, playground safety campaigns conducted by the Kiwanis clubs, Elks and Parent-Teacher associations.

In 1957 Kansas had 43 pedestrian deaths, against 59 in 1956.

Kansas City, Mo., and Wichita, Kas., received special citations for pedestrian program activities in the 200,000 to 500,000 population group.

Other Kansas and Missouri winners:

Population 50,000 to 100,000—St. Joseph, Mo., special citation for pedestrian program activities.

Population 25,000 to 50,000—University City, Mo., tie for second with Mason City, Iowa, Belmont Mass., and Walla Walla, Wash.

Population 10,000 to 25,000—Great Bend, Kas., third; Garden City, Kas., honorable mention. Sedalia, Mo., Arkansas City, Kas., Carthage, Mo., and Hays, Kas., special citations for improvement in program activities.

Returns From Brussels

Hazel Palmer Impressed With World Fair Exhibit

Miss Hazel Palmer, who has recently returned from attending the Brussels' World's Fair, Brussels, Belgium, was particularly impressed with the panorama of American Life, part of the American exhibit.

This huge circle, she said, in which people stand and look around them in any direction viewing the film which really and truly depicts the American way of life, is terrific. People of other countries, Miss Palmer noticed, were amazed and deeply affected. She saw them, many times, reach out and touch someone with them as if they couldn't believe that such a way of life really existed. The exhibit, Miss Palmer said, of the American's contribution to the World's Fair is very quiet and simple, presented in such a manner as if to explain that America believes in culture, peace and quiet, not warfare.

Hardly anybody from other countries left the panorama with dry eyes, she said, the exhibit was so impressive.

The visit to the World's Fair, Miss Palmer stated, was the Business and Professional Women's goodwill tour spearheaded by her, the national president, Fanny Hardey, second vice president and Ruth C. Culler, who were among those from this country attending the board meeting of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, held in Mannheim, Germany.

They flew to Brussels, Miss Palmer said, and went the rest of the trip by train right through the heart of the countries where they had an opportunity to see the way of life there and talk to the people.

In Paris the French Federation entertained them with a reception and it was just at the time of the recent political crisis in France.

They went to Italy where they spent four days in Rome viewing the old ruins there. They did not get an audience with the Pope as he had hoped to, she said, but he had had an audience only a short time before and was unable to give another one at that time. They did visit the Vatican, however, and also stood in the crowd when the Pope came to the window.

Germaine Palmer, niece of Miss Palmer, who had spent a week in Paris, joined the group and accompanied them on the tour.

They visited the ruins of Pompeii and Miss Palmer said she could not help thinking how these people of ancient times, feeling they had so much culture and were so strong, were struck down, leaving only the ruins of these cities. She felt the Italians were particularly friendly and were fond of the Americans.

The group went to Munich where she had been in 1954 and again in 1955, and then to Mannheim, Germany, to the board meeting May 25-29.

She observed the economic condition of these countries, which were excellent. There is a wonderful improvement over three years ago, Miss Palmer said, and the people in Paris and Italy were all well dressed and seemed to be bright and cheerful. Germany is still war-torn, but is being rebuilt. There is a great deal yet to do, however.

From Mannheim they went to Frankfurt, Germany, Shannon, Ireland, London, Iceland, and flew over Greenland, which they could see very well, and then to New York.

Miss Palmer did not see as much of the Fair as she would have liked. She did not see the Russian exhibit because there were so many official duties in the 48 hours she was in Brussels that by the time she got through, the Russian building was closed. She was on short wave radio, on the broadcast of colored television, appearing with Katherine Howard, U. S. high commissioner at the Fair, and made an address at a meeting. She called on women leaders, met the Belgian president, and made good will visits to other clubs. She also attended a reception.

Indian Language Dies With Last Tribe Chief

SONORA, Calif. (AP)—The Mi-wuk Indian tongue died as a living language here Saturday night in the person of William Fuller, hereditary chief of the tribe since 1888. He was 85.

But Fuller, son of a white Ohio settler and a Mi-wuk chieftain's daughter, recorded the now-extinct language for a Columbia University study before his death.

Fuller was born in 1873 at Bald Rock, Calif., an early Indian village where the town of Twain Harte now stands.

His father Albert Fuller was a 49er miner who married Jenita, the Indian princess, and settled down after the gold rush to collect tolls along the Mono Road, which ran between Sonora, Bridgeport and the mining town of Bodie.

Speed Flier and Air Power Pioneer Dies

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C. (AP)—Maj. Alford (A) Williams, speed flier of a generation ago, and a fighter for air power and a separate Air Force, died of cancer at a hospital yesterday at the age of 61. He lived on a nearby farm.

Williams conceived dive bombing 35 years ago and was the first man to fly 300 miles an hour.

His single-seat, custom-built fighter plane, the Gulfhawk, in which he flew around the country, is enshrined in the Smithsonian Institution as "the plane that taught young America to fly."

He won the Distinguished Flying Cross in 1929 for his work as chief test pilot for the Navy.

He is survived by his widow Alice and a son, John.

Present of Triplets

KC Meet Names Trimble Head Of Young Democrats

KANSAS CITY (AP)—James G. Trimble, Clay County's representative in the state legislature, was named president of the Missouri Young Democrats at a meeting here Saturday.

Other officers chosen: Willoughby O'Connell, Nevada, executive vice president; Miss Jenni Paul, Pineville, administrative vice president; Joseph C. Pruett, Kansas City, corresponding secretary; Willard C. Reine, Jefferson City, recording secretary.

Lawrence Daniels of Warsaw, treasurer; William A. Geary, St. Louis, sergeant at arms; Weber Gilmore, Sikeston, national committeeman, and Mrs. Mary Merrill, Monticello, national committeewoman.

Addressing the meeting, Rep. Richard Bolling said things look good for Democrats in the coming congressional elections "but we can also fall on our face." He warned the Democrats against complacency.

Sen. Stuart Symington was unable to attend the meeting because of a Saturday session of the Senate. A speech he had prepared for delivery was read by his administrative assistant, Stanley Fike.

Bolling characterized the coming election as the first chance he had seen "to elect a truly effective Democratic Congress." He described previous congresses as stalemates, unable "to make policy in domestic, foreign and defense areas."

Lamine 4-H Meets

The Lamine 4-H Club met June 12 at the Lamine Community Center with six members, three visitors and three leaders present.

The group enjoyed a garden tour after which a discussion on cleaning the community building were held. Several letters were read by Mrs. Rugen on 4-H Camp and on Judging Day to be held on July 15. Roll call was answered by naming the articles collected for the 4-H auction.

The next meeting will be held July 19 at the community center.

Domestic Plan Is Preferred By Missourian

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. George H. Christopher (D-Mo) said today he favors the acreage allotment and marketing quota system for wheat rather than the domestic parity plan.

The House Agriculture Committee has included in omnibus farm legislation a proposal for a domestic certificate plan which could become effective if farmers voted to put it into operation.

Under the domestic parity plan, the secretary of agriculture would establish quotas for the estimated wheat production that would be consumed domestically for food. Production certificates would provide payment to producers of the difference between the market price and 100 per cent of parity on that portion.

The remainder would be sold by the producer on the free market.

Christopher, who farmed in Missouri for years, said he believes the domestic parity plan would be difficult to operate and would leave exportable surpluses "at the mercy of the grain trade."

"The acreage allotment and marketing quota plan has been tried and has proved successful and will continue to be successful if it is given a chance to operate by a Department of Agriculture which would be sympathetic to it," he said.

"From 1941 to 1952 wheat was held at about 100 per cent of parity as were other crops."

The Missourian said there were enough hungry people in the United States and the world to consume this nation's wheat surpluses if sold by the government on the world market. He added there would be little loss to the federal government in such sales.

"We would make more friends and more lasting friends in friendly nations of the world if we would sell or give them food instead of giving them money," he said.

"If we couldn't sell surplus wheat, we could give it to hungry foreign people instead of money."

Enraged Suitor Kills Deputy, Injures Three

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—An enraged suitor killed a deputy sheriff and wounded his girl friend's parents and another deputy last night.

The assailant then fled into a nearby wooded area of a Pensacola suburb with his sweetheart following him. The girl, Wesie Jernigan, 19, was found a short time later near her home.

The Alabama highway patrol reported that Alabama and Florida state and local police were alerted to watch for Ed Golden, 25, identified as the gunman.

The Alabama patrol reported that the Escambia County (Fla.) sheriff's office said Deputy Bert Adams, 32, died soon after the shooting of a bullet wound in the head.

In critical condition at a Pensacola hospital is Pierce Jernigan, 48, the girl's father. Less seriously wounded at the same hospital is Escambia Deputy Leslie Brock, 31, who suffered a bullet wound in the neck, and the girl's mother Mrs. Essie Jernigan, who suffered a flesh wound in the right shoulder.

Bill Dingwall, a reporter for the Pensacola News-Journal, quoted Mrs. Jernigan as saying the shooting occurred when deputies, she had summoned, arrived at the Jernigan home. She said she and her husband had a violent argument with Golden over attentions to their daughter.

Marks Another Milestone in Career

Miss Roche Presides Over National Health Conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—Josephine Roche presides today over a national health conference, marking another minor milestone in a major career of helping others.

Her varied career ranges from cleaning up Denver's red light district as one of the nation's first policewomen to spending a billion dollars as director of the United Mine Workers' welfare and retirement fund. She'd had that job for 10 years, and at 71 is still working hard at it.

The daughter of a rich and conservative businessman, she followed her father into the presidency of the Rocky Mountain Fuel Co. in Denver, but she had ideas of her own.

When as a young girl her father had forbidden her to visit his coal mines because they were dangerous, she asked: "Then why is it safe enough for the miners?"

She's still asking questions. In 1938 Miss Roche presided over a national conference called by President Roosevelt to explore ways of making medical and hospital services more available.

Today she chairs a national conference of labor health services—a two-day session devoted to the same general aim, but keyed to worker health needs.

She's been director of the UMW welfare fund since its inception. Miss Roche's got after Denver's prostitutes and vice back in 1912. A reform group took over the city and made Miss Roche, then 28, one of the nation's first police-women. She took the job seriously.

She's disarmingly charming, with soft, wavy gray hair and pleasant, sweet-looking features. She was married in 1920 but ended it with a divorce two years later.

Once, after her father died and left her to run his coal mines, she attended a government wage hearing. The presiding official, impressed at seeing her in the audience of hard-bitten owners and miners, asked her to come sit on the platform.

"This hearing needs some beauty," he wrote her in a note. "What this hearing needs," she scribbled back, "is not beauty but guts."

Born Dec. 2, 1886, in Neligh, Neb., Miss Roche has been an adviser to many American presidents. She once headed the U. S. Public Health Service under Franklin D. Roosevelt. She was assistant secretary of the Treasury, ran a losing race for governor of Colorado, and helped plan the Social Security Act.

A chain smoker and hard worker, she never takes a vacation and keeps busy holidays and weekends. She tends at times to be crabby and impatient with others. She lives simply in an apartment near her office. Her whole life is her work.
